Clarivate
Analytics

One of the main challenges for researchers today is the postulation and publication of their research in academic journals of quality and impact.

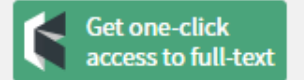

For this reason, Clarivate analytics has developed together with Endnote the Match tool. This tool will allow us, through a semantic analysis, to determine which would be the best journals to publish my article.

When selecting the MATCH option, you must complete the data requested by the tool - Title, summary and references (Optional). Once the data is complete, the platform will make a semantic analysis of the words and indicate which journals would be the most appropriate to publish. All suggested journals are indexed in Web Of Science and have Journal Impact Factor.
